SENATOR HARDING IS BACK AT HIS DESK IN WASHINGTON

Republican Presidential Nominee Has Week's Work Before Returning to Home in Marion, Ohio.

Formal Notification Will be Made Upon His Return Home.

Many Friends and Neighbors Greet Senator at Midnight

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, June 14.—Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio, Republican presidential nominee, was back at his desk in his office at the capital today.

Accompanied by Mrs. Harding; his secretary, George Christian, and a small group of senators, he arrived a few minutes after midnight and went directly to his home.

Senator Harding told the Associated Press he would remain in Washington about a week. He expected to be busy for a day or two cleaning up the business he accumulated as Senator, but the coming of Will Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, will force him immediately into the part assigned to him by the convention.

He will confer with Mr. Hays with the idea of getting his campaign under way at once, although formal notification of his nomination will not be received by him until he returns to his home at Marion, Ohio.

Many of his neighbors had remained up to witness the homecoming, and their greeting was like that given by the crowd at the station. Inez McWhorter, the Harding negro cook, was in the van of those who rushed forward to welcome Senator and Mrs. Harding.

KANUCK PRESS IS FAVORABLE TO SEN. HARDING

FRENCH HAPPY WHEN JOHNSON IS DEFEATED

Little Comment in The Parisian Press on Selection of Harding.

Believe Harding Will be Friendly To France.

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, June 14.—Few newspapers in this city venture to comment on the action of the Republican National Convention at Chicago.

"The nomination of Senator Harding is a triumph of the machine of the party organization, or its bosses, or personalities sufficiently powerful or well supplied with funds to be in a position to appeal directly to the nation," declares one newspaper.

"All Frenchmen are greatly satisfied with the elimination of Hiram Johnson, whose heart and spirit have never been greatly in favor of France," says the Paris Journal.

The newspaper comments on the fact that Mr. Harding is an intimate friend of Myron T. Herrick, former United States Ambassador to France and a real friend of this country.

Neither Satisfaction or Disappointment Expressed

Times and News Say Way Is Opened For Possible Election Of Democrat.

(By Associated Press.)

London, June 14.—Warren G. Harding's personality and record being known here, newspaper comments this morning express neither satisfaction nor disappointment with the Republican choice.

Several newspapers refer to him as a "dark horse" and infer from cabled reports he represents a compromise.

Two or three journals assume the result of the Chicago convention has opened the possibility of the election of a Democrat to the presidency, which of late has been regarded here as extremely improbable. Among those taking this view are the London Times and the Daily News.

"Definite and Constructive Program" Will be Presented.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, June 14.—Declaration by Amos Pinchot, member of the Committee of Forty-eight, that there positively would be a new party presidential candidate in the field; rumors that Senator LaFollette would head a ticket as presidential candidate, and announcement that the campaign in behalf of Senator Warren G. Harding would be started promptly were the outstanding developments following the Republican National Convention.

The statement by Mr. Pinchot declared that the "Republican Party had driven out of representation in its councils the millions of voters who followed Roosevelt, Johnson and LaFollette, and that the new party will represent these voters and present a definite and constructive program."

Harding managers, it was said, will start the campaign soon after the Democratic convention is held and will not wait until Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge are officially notified of their nomination.

HARDING SHOWERED WITH MAIL AND WIRES

Congratulations Pouring Upon Presidential Nominee

Poses For Movies and Says Being Candidate is Very Strenuous.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, June 14.—Senator Warren G. Harding, the republican presidential nominee, announced today that for the present he would have no statement to make.

He reached his office shortly before noon and after posing for the moving picture men was given an informal reception by Senate employees. He seemed in the height of good humor and while posing for the moving picture men kept up a running fire of humorous comment.

At his office he found hundreds of telegrams of congratulations as well as a large batch of mail.

Among the telegrams were messages from his father, Dr. Geo. Harding, and sister Abigail, sending "congratulations and love."

Senator Harding was especially pleased with a telegram from John Philip Sousa which said:

"Bless your musical soul, May God's harmonies be with you forever."

Other messages received were from Senator Pomeroy, democrat, of Ohio, and Representative and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio.

On arriving at the capital the Senator visited the Senate barber shop to see Elder Sims, one of the negro barbers.

"He's the barber who prays for me," Senator Harding said. "It did me good to see him."

Senator Harding declared that being a presidential candidate was more strenuous than "anything I have ever known."

A pray of thanks was offered by fifteen hundred passengers on the steamer when the children had been transferred safely from the row boat.

COOLIDGE FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

Massachusetts Governor Chosen as Harding's Running Mate on First Ballot, Although Harding Chiefs Had Hoped For Lenroot.

Chicago, June 13.—Warren G. Harding, United States senator from Ohio, was nominated for the presidency by the Republican national convention after a deadlock which lasted for nine ballots and which finally forced out of the running all the original favorites.

As his running mate, the convention named Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, upsetting a combination of the Harding backers to nominate for the place Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, of Wisconsin.

The collapse of the forces of Governor Frank O. Lowden and their transfer in large part to Senator Harding put the Ohio candidate over.

COOLIDGE LANDS

Governor Coolidge got 674 votes to 146 for Senator Lenroot and 68 to Governor Allen of Kansas. Several others got scattering support without being placed formally in nomination. The result was greeted with another demonstration and there was renewed cheering a few minutes later when the tired delegates were told that their work was done. It was early evening by the time adjournment was reached but before midnight hundreds had checked out and were on their way.

Near the close of the ballot there was a wholesale switching of votes to the Harding camp and then a motion to make it unanimous. This motion failed because of the opposition of the Wisconsin delegation.

TIED HAND AND FOOT BABE FOUND IN CREEK INVESTIGATION IS ON

Gruesome Find Made Under Sugar Creek Bridge On the Martinsburg Pike.

Body of New Born Baby Found in Creek Starts Probe Into Possible Murder.

Was Wrapped in Copy Of 'Enquirer' Bearing Date of June 6th, 1920.

With its hands and feet securely fastened by two red rubber bands, the body of a new born baby babe was found by Frank Dunfee, in a sack floating in Sugar Creek, under the steel bridge on the New Martinsburg pike, about five miles from this city late Sunday afternoon.

Dunfee, an employee of the Washington Lumber Company, was spending the day along Sugar Creek fishing when, about four o'clock Sunday evening when he noticed a paper sack wrapped in a newspaper floating under the bridge. Curious, he fished the package out with his pole, and was horrified upon opening the sack to find the partly decayed body of a new born baby, that had been in the water probably a week.

The little hands and feet were bound together with two ordinary red rubber bands. The sack was surrounded by a swarm of Crawfish which had gnawed at the remains while the left foot was missing, probably taken away by a turtle.

Dunfee came back to this city about seven o'clock and told of his gruesome find. When the information reached the police headquarters it was nearly nine o'clock and preparations were made immediately to secure the body. Undertaker Elmer A. Klever, who is acting coroner, was notified, and with Chief of Police D. L. Moore, Patrolman Bell and a Herald reporter, went to the scene.

Arriving at the long steel bridge search was made more difficult by a heavy downpour of rain and the fact that the underbrush around the bridge is exceptionally heavy and the descent from the road to the creek is down a thirty foot embankment.

The body was found lying on a rock just where Dunfee had left it after unfastening the sack.

It was brought to this city and taken to the Klever undertaking rooms until a more thorough investigation could be made Monday morning.

The sack that had contained the body was not located Sunday night and Monday morning Dunfee was taken to the bridge so that he might find it. He spoke of newspapers in which the sack had been wrapped. Dunfee quickly located both the sack and the paper.

Find First Clues

The sack and the paper will form the first clues on which the police and investigating authorities will work. The sack was an ordinary meal sack but the newspaper was a Cincinnati Enquirer dated Sunday, June 6, 1920. It bore no address slip and clearly showed that the paper had been purchased through a newsdealer or newsboy and had not been forwarded through the mails.

The paper shows that the child was born either last Sunday or Monday, a week at the utmost probably, either in this city or Greenfield.

Autopsy is Performed

When the party came back to the city with the paper and sack Prosecutor Harry M. Rankin was notified and he called together two doctors who held a post mortem examination. Doctors H. L. Stitt and E. F. Ted hunter pronounced the body the remains of a fully matured male baby; that it was alive when born.

Miss Mary Robinson, probation officer, was also summoned and is assisting with the investigation. Every possible effort to run down the guilty parties was underway at noon Monday. From the clues that have been picked up it is expected that arrests will follow.

Criminal Act is Seen

The placing of the rubber bands on the tiny hands and feet was a pure act of brutality and murder was the motive, is the opinion of the authorities. With it proven beyond a doubt that the child was alive the limbs of the child were bound for no other purpose it is believed than to keep the child from tearing through the sack after it was pitched into the brush sheltered pool beneath the bridge.

Indications are that the new born babe was taken to the bridge in an auto and thrown from the road into the water.

WILL THEY SEND THE LIFESAVERS TO HIS RESCUE — OR LET HIM PERISH?

Bury Remains

The almost decayed remains were taken to the Washington cemetery Monday afternoon where burial was made by Undertaker Klever.

THE 'GLAD PLAY' COMES TO THE WONDERLAND

"Pollyanna," the delightful character of book and stage came to the screen at the Wonderland Monday at the 2:30 matinee and will be on the screen afternoons and evenings Tuesday and Wednesday.

With Mary Pickford in the title role and its happy philosophy of joy and gladness it is rightfully named the "Glad" picture. "Pollyanna" is a blend of humor and sentiment and with a very human romance for its basis, Mary Pickford has done a wonderful piece of art in this characterization of universal appeal. She has never been more fascinating than as this joyous girl, who comes into a crabbed community to sweeten everybody by playing the "Glad Game" and whose career in the picture extends from the gingham period to radiant maidenhood in chignon.

The photo play is for young and old and one of the clean, enjoyable pictures that cannot be shown too often.

CLASS IS FINANCING BOYS' CAMPING TRIP

A movement to finance a camping trip for fifty boys is underway in the Men's Bible Class of Grace Methodist Church. Messrs. Frank M. Kennedy, William McClain and C. E. Lloyd, are receiving subscription from members of the church which are expected to total not less than four hundred dollars.

After careful consideration of all available places a site has been selected at Craybill's Park, a half mile south of Waterloo and eleven miles north east of this city. The boys will go into camp on June 22, and will stay one week. A systematic program of activities will be carried out with a set hour, for rising, meals, games, swimming, retiring and all other things that feature camp life. Men who can swim will be on guard during all swim ming hours. Rev. Alexander will be with the boys during the entire trip. "Safety first and a good time following" is the slogan adopted for the trip.

DAUGHERTY HERE THIS EVENING PLAN RECEPTION

Hon. Harry M. Daugherty, national campaign manager for Senator Warren G. Harding and to whose efforts is largely due Senator Harding's nomination for the presidency, will be in this city this evening to visit his mother, Mrs. Agne Daugherty, and his brother, Mr. M. S. Daugherty, and family.

Friends are planning a reception for Mr. Daugherty, at 5:30 p. m., on the courthouse lawn, and all citizens are invited to take part.

The Republican Nominee

The republican national convention emerged from the labor of choosing a standard bearer entitled to infinitely more credit than it did from the task of framing a platform.

Warren G. Harding, a native son of Ohio, the choice of the convention delegates on the tenth ballot, is undoubtedly the strongest candidate that could have been chosen from among the numerous active candidates and "dark horse" possibilities.

Harding went to the convention with but slender hope of success, according to the opinion of political experts and leaders, and he emerged from the turmoil of the gathering the proud possessor of the greatest honor that can be conferred by a political party.

Warren G. Harding deserved the nomination. His clean campaign methods, his comparatively modest expenditures and his refusal to become a party to the bitter wrangling among the leaders commended him favorably to the delegates.

If the work of the Chicago convention is ratified by the voters at the November election the affairs of the nation will be safe in the custody of Senator Harding as chief executive. He is by no means radical nor ultra-progressive and the nation has had quite enough of both during the past decade or more.

The nominee at Chicago would take to the presidency a dignified calm, a regard for the opinions of others, tolerance for those with whom he disagrees and honesty, ability and high, though not obtrusive and noisy, patriotism.

The people are longing for peace in our political and official life. They are weary of war between governmental departments and wrangles in politics based on form and technicalities, and the republican standard-bearer can and will, if elected, give to the nation an administration free from the turmoils and bickerings of the past.

The democratic party at San Francisco will have no difficulty in presenting a better platform than the republicans have presented, but they will have difficulty in naming a standardbearer more fitted to the real needs of the time and more in harmony with the desires of the people. If they match in dignity, ability, tolerance and honesty the republican nominee the people will be relieved of any serious anxiety regarding the outcome of the election.

Denver Banishes The Horse

Denver, Colorado, has adopted an ordinance barring horses from the business sections of the city. It is the first city in the United States to thus emphatically declare the passing of the faithful horse and to speed his going.

It was the horse, in partnership with the hardy pioneer who conquered the vast distance that reached away westward from the great river. It was the horse that pulled the wagons through dismal swamps and burning hot desert, up steep mountain slopes and down through the deep gorges. It was the horse who, obedient to command, lay down and furnished, with his body, the bulwark to stop the arrows and bullets of the Indians while the pioneer fought for his life and for the safety of his family.

Many a faithful horse gave his life just as the promised land drew near. But for the faithful horse many a wagon, housing the family and all its possessions would never have made good the boast emblazoned on the sides of its canvass covered top "Pike's Peak or Bust."

The men who made the trip across in advance of the "iron horse," when the buffalo and the Red Skin ruled the great plains, have made the long, long journey and the pioneer horses have long since gone to the heaven for horses. A new time has come, a new generation of men and horses has come into control. The old bond of sympathy has snapped and the sentiment which ruled the past has given way to the practical needs of the present.

It is better so perhaps. That's the way of the world. Denver, judged by every need of the present, has acted wisely, but—well somehow we had rather the great city which sits under the shadow of Pike's Peak had not been the first to declare for the banishment of the horse.

THE FLAG

(Contributed)

Flag of America!
Flag of America!
Emblem of Liberty,
Forever wave,
Beautiful, ever bright,
Wave in thy people's sight,
Flag of the brave,
Flag of America!
Symbol of unity—
Of heart and hand,
Where'er beneath the skies,
Down-trodden men arise,
To thee they lift their eyes,
And this fair land.

Flag of America!
Brave men have died for thee,
On land and sea,
Upon thy starry field,
Their glory stands revealed
As each new star doth yield
Brightness to three.

Flag of America,
Thy people's love for thee
What tongue can tell!
Wave to protect and bless—
Wave on for righteousness;
Flag of America,
God, guard thee well.

HOW HARDING'S NOMINATION WAS BROUGHT ABOUT

Story of Convention Balloting And Shift of Votes

Which Brought Highest Honor To The Man From Ohio

BY MARK SULLIVAN
(Copyright 1920)

Chicago, June 12.—Saturday morning came. Through a miasmic fog of fluttering rumor and surmise you made your way to the Coliseum. The air was vibrant with excited talk, and the mark and color of the talk that would have caught the attention of any one new to it was the curious coupling of two surnames.

Knox and Johnson. Harding and Collidge. Lowden and Harding. Sproul and Allen. Some of the combinations any informed person knew were ridiculous. Anyhow, the balloting would tell. But to the familiar ear there was one other noticeable feature of the talk. In none of the combinations did Wood's name appear.

At the Coliseum the session opened. The Chaplain made his prayer. The Chairman announced that the secretary had an announcement to make. The audience became breathless. Surely the announcement would be vital. It would be the result of some of these midnight conferences. It would announce a withdrawal. Over the heads of the tensely expectant audience the bulky secretary spread his hands. He opened his mouth. He said something about mail for the delegates accumulating at the post office. The audience laughed uncomfortably. Then the balloting began.

Alabama showed no change. When Arizona came, the chairman of the delegation arose, showing clearly in manner and in voice that he was sensitive of the situation. With the air of a man who will stand with his back to the wall till the last ballot, he barked "Arizona casts six votes for General Wood." He's a very loyal Wood man, that Arizona chairman. Loyalty and determination to stick show in every tone of his voice. But he can't conceal the consciousness of being on the defensive. At Arkansas came the first renewal of the anti-Wood tactics. One Arkansas delegate switched from Wood to Lowden. At Colorado came a variation of the same tactics. Two votes that had been for Wood went away from him. Then came a blow that made the Wood partisans gasp a little. Kansas, dependable Kansas, Henry Allen's Kansas, began to break. From 14 for Wood in the last ballot last night, he fell down to 10. Then at Missouri came a blow. Five of Wood's delegates left him. Then New York came. It was apparent that the two factions in that state recognized that the tug-of-war had come. Wood went up from 20 to 24, a rise of 4, but Lowden went up from 32 to 42. The machine was working.

At New Jersey came another slight evidence of the inevitable break from Johnson. One vote left him and went to Harding. At Oregon the inevitable drift from the delegates that Johnson had under duress began. Three of his eight left him. One of them went to Lowden and another to Harding. And now came Texas. There, for the first time, we got the sure sign of what was being done. Up to the present it had been solely a case of beating Wood with Lowden; now came signs of the next purpose—to substitute Harding for Lowden. Lowden, in his turn, was to be beaten and Harding was to be made the winner. The Texas delegates are just the kind who are most easily subservient to a program like this. On the last ballot Friday night, Wood had had eight delegates from Texas; now, on the first ballot this morning, they gave him only five and a half. Lowden, Friday night, had had 9½. This morning they gave Lowden 8½. That was the thing that arrested the attention and marked the beginning of a new trend. They were taking delegates away from Wood, but they were not giving them to Lowden; they were giving them to some one else. That some one else was Harding. Harding, Friday night had had only 4½ delegates from Texas; this morning he had 8.

The balloting went on for a while without any high spots. At the district of Columbia there was a human equasion: When it was called, a light but trenchant voice snapped. In two sharp syllables, "Wood 2." It was a faithful Wood adherent, seeing how things were going, and showing by his voice that he would stick to the last but trenchant voice snapped, out in 2 rifle shots.

The end of this first ballot of Saturday morning showed how confident were the senatorial group who possessed the balance of power. We had all expected that this first ballot this morning would be Wood's peak, and, although we all felt he was going to be beaten, we did not expect to see him begin to fall until after he had won another ballot. But the balance of power group were confident. In this first ballot this morning they gave Wood only 299 and Lowden 303. Lowden had passed Wood. The audience, seeing it only superficially, cheered and yelled. They thought it was merely a case of two runners and one beating the other. But those of us who could see deep, knew well that the other program was now under way.

The next ballot began—the second of the day. Alabama no change. Arizona stood fast for Wood as always. In Colorado Wood lost one. Connecticut had no significance. None of the other states had any significance until we got down to Indiana. There it became increasingly apparent just what was happening. On the previous ballot Wood had had 18 from eighteen from Indiana. Harding only 4 and Johnson 5. Now 2 were taken away from Wood and one of them given to Lowden. At Maine Frank Hitchcock began to call on his Wood reserves. One Maine delegate had been voting for Hoover, with the assent of the Wood forces. But now that vote could no longer be wasted on Hoover. It was called back and for the first time Maine voted her solid delegation of 12 for Wood. Next came Maryland and Maryland still stood fast for Wood. There have been uneasy rumors about this Wood delegation from Maryland. Sooner or later part of it will prove disloyal and turn away.

Now comes Michigan and here the real Johnson break begins. We had expected it in the last ballot but there is every disposition to be conciliatory to Johnson, and he is permitted to have Michigan for one ballot longer than he might reasonably have expected it. In the break Johnson still kept 18; Lowden got 1 and Wood got 11. Johnson won't be able to keep all of those 18. On future ballots more of them will leave him to go to Wood or Lowden. This break away from Johnson continued as soon as Nebraska was reached. Ten Nebraska delegates had been voting for Johnson; now 6 of them quit and went where they were much needed to Wood. New York was passed on this ballot without substantial change. When Ohio was reached it was evident that there was strife and war in that delegation. Quite naturally so. Harding had most of the delegates from that state. He had 39 of them, while Wood had only nine. That alignment — 39 and 39—remained the same up to this ballot, but we all know that several of these 39 delegates were not loyal to Harding and were voting for him only under duress. They counted on leaving him and going to Wood, where their hearts were. But now came the complication. They now see that Harding is to be the man the leaders will try to nominate, and Harding is a son of their own state. Under these circumstances shall they keep their promise to leave him? There is turmoil in the delegation. Someone demands a roll call. The balloting must cease until the secretary calls the names of the 48 men. The result is that four delegates have left Harding and gone to Wood. The result of this ballot is that Wood and Lowden are exactly even at 31½.

The thoughtless in the crowd get excited. They think it is all a race between two men, whereas the truth is that it is apparently all in Harding's favor. Harding is now up to 89. In the next ballot the slipping away from Wood continues to be conspicuous. It is smooth and well managed. It is done chiefly in the southern states, where the delegates are most susceptible to machine management. In this ballot, for example, 7½ were taken away from Wood in Tennessee.

The end of this ballot showed that laborious and complicated, but highly artful, process by which the thing is being managed. By this time the intention to push Harding forward is plain, even to uninitiated. What the balance of power groups is doing is to carefully shift the delegates they control. They do not take the delegates directly away from Wood and Lowden and give them straight away to Harding. They shift them about from place to place, only an acute observer can follow the process. At the end of this ballot, for example, Wood and Lowden are practically unchanged. Wood has 312, Lowden 311½ but Harding has come up from 89 to 105½.

All the time Hitchcock is drawing on his reserves. The elimination of Johnson releases them to him. He call up one from Massachusetts occasionally. On the very last ballot, before the recess, Hitchcock dragged up half a delegate from Florida, which is supposed to be one of his private personal stores for delegates. Again, in this last ballot, he called up a delegate from Nebraska. Wood's score in that state went up from 13 to 14. Through it is all certain states stood fast. Arizona and New Mexico were like a combined stone wall for Wood. California still sticks with Johnson, but soon she, too, will break up and the bulk of her delegates will be distributed where they will best further the plan of the senatorial group that now has the power. Illinois continues the same throughout—41 delegates for Lowden and 17 for Johnson. Iowa stands like a stone wall for Lowden all the time—26 on every ballot. Kentucky is another dependable division for Lowden. Pennsylvania never changes—75 for Sproul and one for Knox.

Now it is apparent the senatorial group is going to ask for a recess. If they get it easily, they will show their power. They do get it easily.

At the recess Harding, by a strange coincidence, is up to exactly where Johnson started last night, at 133½. Wood at the end of this ballot—the eighth—is exactly where he was the first, 299. Lowden has not changed materially. The conspicuous fact is that Harding is being pushed forward slowly and steadily, like a lumbering military tank.

The recess was over. The ninth ballot began. Alabama stood fast. Then came Arizona. For the ninth time that gallant Arizona Wood man arose. This time, for the first occasion he varied the formula: He rolled his voice out in shrill defiance. "Arizona again casts 9 votes for Wood." Arkansas recorded no change. California no change. She still threw her votes for Johnson. Colorado made no change.

At Kansas it was all over with Wood. That state, which had started out with a large majority for Wood, had later veered to Lowden. Now it cast its entire 29 for Harding. That settled it. The big break was on. Then Kentucky switched her whole 26 votes from Lowden to Harding. That meant that the beating of Wood was complete and that Lowden was now to be put out. Missouri clinched the evidence. The entire 36 delegates of that state switched to Harding.

The rest was a hurried rush to the band wagon. Finally, even Pennsylvania broke and joined the rush all must take who expect to have access to the pie county of a successful nominee. Sixty delegates from that state left their favorite, Sproul, and voted for Harding.

The nomination of Harding was brought about by a group of Republican senators, who are friends of his. The thought behind it was that both Wood and Lowden must be killed off. The senators who brought it about believed that both these men had been so impaired by the campaign fund disclosures as to make them unavailable. These senators say that Harding was the only man who could take enough of the already elected delegates away from both Wood and Lowden to accomplish the purpose. The plan was based on a careful survey of these delegates. The senators say that was the reason they chose Harding. But it is also true that this Republican senatorial group has wanted Harding from the beginning.

BIG DAMAGE CAUSED BY WIND STORM

Grandstand at Sunnyside Park Blown Down, Several Barns on Farms Near City Razed — Telephone Service Crippled.

Extensive damage probably to the amount of several thousand dollars, resulted Sunday evening about six o'clock when a heavy gale, accompanied by rain, swept over the southern part of the city and continued over the southeastern part of the county where its path was marked by a wake of ruin.

In the city, the Sunnyside baseball park was wrecked scarcely an hour after hundreds had occupied it during the afternoon ball game. In several instances damage of a lesser note was caused.

Continuing down the Chillicothe pike to the A. L. Moore farm telephone poles for more, than, half a mile were carried for hundreds of feet into the fields, where they formed a tangled mess, with the numerous wires which they carry to this city. A brick tenant house on the Moore farm had the roof torn off with a part of the upper story. William Estey, and family who occupy the house were uninjured.

On the Donald Thornton farm, a barn was smashed to the ground entailing a loss of several hundred dollars; and the barn on the J. W. Townsley farm was left a shattered ruin.

The storm was heralded by a vivid electrical display, and with the wind came pouring rain, that covered almost all Fayette county. Reports from Jeffersonville, New Holland and Bloomingburg were that they had escaped the wind but had received a much needed rain.

In the northern section of the city the storm was light with little wind.

CHILDREN'S DAY IS HAPPILY CELEBRATED

Children's Day was happily celebrated in several of the city Sunday Schools on Sunday, with the June day, with its sunshine and roses, in tune with all young life.

First Presbyterian. It would be difficult to conceive a prettier children's day service than that held at the First Presbyterian church at nine o'clock Sunday morning, when the Sunday School and church service were merged in one. Everything went off splendidly with taking songs, drills and exercises presented to an audience which filled the church and Sunday School rooms.

The chancel decorations rivaled anything ever attempted for children's day and made a wonderfully beautiful setting for the little human flowers in the Junior classes. The organ and choir doors were well screened with white lattices trimmed with roses and maple leaves. A white fence twined with roses, separated the chancel from the platform and graceful baskets of roses and peonies were in effective arrangement.

Three specially pretty drills were the Garland and the Rose Drills by Miss Palmer's class; and the Can Brigade by Miss Helen Hamm's class. The tiny tots were as cunning as could be in their songs and pieces. Recitations were prettily given by Mary Catherine Probasco, Billy Leveck, Carolyn Sprenger, Bobby Cook, Margaret Frazer, Doras Massmore and Furt McClure; Frederick Woodard, Mary Frances Noble, Dolores Thompson, Mary Grace Snyder, Stanley Flee, Charles Brown, Charles Shepard, Helen Burnett, Chas. Keister, Jane Lipsett, Judith Ann Jackson, Herbert Sprenger, Leontine Staubus, Anna Hurt, Herchel Noble. Miss Edna Hamm was chairman of the committee which trained the children so admirably. The other members were Miss Helen Hamm, the pianist also, Mary Pyley, Marjorie Klever.

Rev. Gage followed the program with a brief children's sermon. The credit for the elaborate and artistic decorating is due to Miss Clara Zimmerman, Messrs. Elmer and Raymond Zimmerman.

First Baptist Church. The children's day exercises at the First Baptist church, Sunday evening, introduced a new feature into the regular program, which was based upon the covenant, and the commandment noted in Bible history: "in thee and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blest; go ye into all the world, and teach all nations." Old Testament history traces the covenant from century to century in the story of its great men, Abraham, Jacob, Joseph, Moses, Joshua, David. In new Testament history in the coming of Christ, and in the obeying of the commandment is being fulfilled the covenant with Abraham.

Miss Irene Cooper read the scriptures which were interspersed by appropriate songs and concert recitations by the Sunday school classes of Miss DeWees, Mrs. Case, Miss Gladys Brown and Mrs. Kreh.

John Case delivered a recitation exceedingly well, the subject: "The Burial of Moses."

Mrs. C. R. Ferguson told the story of Joseph in a pleasing manner. The children of the primary department grouped together on the platform, were cunning in their song: "Listening Already Now to Hear." Lucile McLean and Virginia Kerns sang sweetly a duet: "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old."

Mrs. Walter McLean, Mrs. C. R. Ferguson, Mr. Laris Hard and Mr. Charles Updyke composed a quartet in charge of the music, with Miss Mable Briggs at the piano.

An impressive close to the program was a pantomime gracefully posed by six young women, Misses Mary DeWees, Gladys Nelson, Elva Belles, Sarah DeWees, Bertha and Metta Graves of Mrs. McLean's class in white flowing robes. Mrs. McLean singing effectively the hymn "O Zion Haste."

Misses Mary DeWees, Lina Willis and Mindonna Dabe very capably managed the program.

McNair Memorial Church. The children of McNair Memorial Sunday school presented a beautiful rose program, Sunday evening in commemoration of children's day. The church was decorated with a profusion of garden roses effectively combined with branches of syringa.

The tiny tots of the primary department were particularly taking in their songs, rose exercises and recitations by Donna Graves, Paul Thompson, Nona Louise Cripps, Anna Leasure, Nora Williams and Wanda Clemens.

The young girls of Mrs. Oriman's class gave a pretty Rose Drill and the children of the Home who attend this Sunday School presented a delightful program of songs and exercises.

A special offering for the Sunday school board of the Presbyterian church was taken.

Miss Pauline Denny and Miss Edith Barnes at the piano, were in charge of the successful program.

ATHLETICS WIN AND ALSO LOSE IN FAST GAMES

Robbins & Myers Team Is Easily Beaten at Springfield When Morris Hurls Perfect Shutout and Weilds Wicked Stick.

Goldes Triumphant Over Athletics in Sabbath Game For Second Time This Season.

In two baseball games Saturday and Sunday the Washington Athletics broke even by winning the Saturday contest at Springfield against the Robbins & Myers team 3 to 0 and then dropping the Sunday game to the Goldes of Cincinnati 6 to 4 on the home lot.

It was the second time this year that the Goldes have been victors over the Athletics. The Goldes first turned the trick on May 9th after eleven innings had passed when the visitors massed four runs in their inning and then held the Athletics scoreless for a 10 to 6 victory.

Although Morris had pitched a shutout affair at Springfield the day before he was willing to go into the box again Sunday when VanZant, who was not in the best of condition, failed to show enough stuff to go against the slugging Cincinnatians. Morris pitched a good game and allowed a third less hits than his opponents but they came in bunches.

Harley Adams, hard playing right fielder who starred mightily with the stick and drove in most of the Washington tallies, muffed one in the eighth that tied the score and from then on the Goldes were on their toes and holding to the lead. Although an inglorious error it was a bad ball to catch and took a sudden twist as it neared the ground in deep right.

Both sides were retired in order in the first frame. In the second Morris held the Goldes while Carl Noon counted the initial run for his team. Carl banged one past the first baseman that broke his bat and Suttles laid him down to second with a neat sacrifice. Harley Adams did the work of execution with a hard driving single. The Goldes aroused by this time and came back strong dragging a couple of runs behind them. Sweitle smacked one for the first hit off Morris. Beldy struck out. Meyer was an easy out.

Boerger dropped a nasty one in short left that went for a two bagger although it hardly had momentum for a pop fly. Sweitle scored. Dehner knocked for two bases and Boerger came around. This tied the score and it hung there until the sixth when the Athletics put two counters across and the game looked safe.

Adams was again responsible for two more runs when he singled wickedly with Doyle on second and Noon on first. Doyle had hit his second two bagger of the day while Carl had strolled.

It was the eighth that made things black for the home club. It was in this frame that things went wrong and when the smoke had lifted four runs had been marked up on three small hits. Mueller sliced one out. Sweitle got his second hit but Beldy was an out. Meyer, brother of Joe Meyer who once played with Cincinnati, now with Evanville, was good for a single. Wasteny rapped a mean fly to Adams and the unexpected happened when the school master dropped it.

No less than four double plays featured the game. The Goldes engineered three of these and cut down advancing runners time after time.

Local fans are beginning to realize the hard playing of Snag Emery and the hardworking catcher received a big hand every time up. Emery is always on his toes and takes desperate chances. He handled seven putouts and two assists without a quiver and made a beautiful block of a tearing runner at the plate.

Less than an hour after the game the grandstand was almost a total wreck when it was struck by the tornado. It will not be possible to stage a game here next Sunday and the contest with the Wilmington Clintons scheduled for here next Sunday has been transferred to the Clinton lot.

DEFEAT SPRINGFIELD

Morris was supreme in the Saturday contest and besides hurling an unbeatable game won his own contest with a neat single that scored Jones and Adams. The Springfield Sun contained the following article and featured the game as the best played in Springfield this season. The Sun says:

"The best game ever played in baseball to be seen here this year was staged yesterday when the Robbins & Myers team and the Washington C. H. Athletics played at Washington park. Because of the threatening weather, only a handful of fans turned out to see the sport. The battle took the form of a pitchers' duel between Bauer and Morris and Bauer had the advantage until the seventh inning when his support wobbled after he had hit Jones and Adams got life on an error. Noon and Moorehead struck out and Morris dropped a Texas leaguer into left field scoring Jones and Adams. The support given Morris was excellent throughout the game. The feature of the game was the fielding of Weider and Lubbers who made good catches, cutting off hits in big league style.

Men of Character Build a Battery of Character

Batteries, like human beings, have character; whether that character is good or bad, depends entirely upon the character of the builder.

A MASTERPIECE

The Cooper Engineers are men who have designed batteries now enjoying a national reputation—men who have devoted their entire careers to the development of the storage battery industry, and as a fitting climax have given to the motoring public a battery that might well be called a masterpiece.

THE PLATE IS THE "HEART" OF THE BATTERY.

A heavy plate, pasted by hand with an active material of "special composition" is an exclusive feature developed by these men, and is responsible for the unusually long period of dependable starting and lighting service that the Cooper Battery yields.

Call at our service station and let us explain to you in detail the merits of the COOPER BATTERY, besides acquainting you with the guarantee under which it is sold.

AUTO ACCIDENT FATAL TO CHILD NEAR GOOD HOPE

Machine Overturns On Lyndon Pike And Loren Wayne Mossbarger Meets Death.

Wilbur Mossbarger Taken To Greenfield Hospital in Serious Condition.

Rounding a turn in the Lyndon pike near Mt. Pisgah church, late Saturday afternoon, an automobile carrying three boys left the road and turned over in the ditch, killing little four-year-old Loren Wayne Mossbarger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ussel Mossbarger residing a few miles south east of Good Hope, and injuring the little fellow's two uncles, boys of 15 and 18, one of whom Wilbur Mossbarger, is now in the Greenfield hospital in a serious condition.

The little fellow had walked across the fields to the home of his grandparents in the morning and was being returned home in the evening.

As the car made a turn in the road the front wheel struck a rut and the steering wheel was jerked from the driver's hand and the machine lurched violently to one side, overturning in the ditch.

The little fellow was killed outright and Wilbur was rendered unconscious. The third escaped with minor injuries.

A physician from Greenfield was summoned and the worst injured of the two elder boys, Wilbur, was taken to the Greenfield Hospital, the other returned home.

The tragedy is a heavy blow to the child's father and mother and other relatives, including the grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Severs, of this city, mother of Mrs. Mossbarger, who is with the grief stricken family.

The funeral services for Loren Wayne were held at the residence Monday afternoon, attended by a large number of friends, and the little body was laid to rest in the Washington cemetery.
